Nature Photographers use various cameras, lenses, and tools to document elements of our natural world to share with others.

Landscape Architects plan and design land areas for cities, parks, businesses and offices. They work to create outdoor spaces that support community needs.