Construction Inspectors make sure construction projects meet all codes. They use engineering skills to ensure projects are safe and follow regulations created by the government.

Urban Planners develop plans and programs for use of land and facilities in a town, city or county. They also recommend whether new proposals should be approved or denied.