Marketing Managers plan, direct and coordinate policies and programs to determine demand of products and services, identify potential customers, and determine prices for goods and services.

Atmospheric and Space Scientists investigate conditions in the Earth's atmosphere and collect data to help them describe weather patterns.